In this case, Joseph Marencik, III, who lived with his aunt, was in an automobile accident while driving a car rented by his father, Joseph Marencik, Jr. The rental agreement expressly prohibited anyone other than Joseph Marencik, Jr., from driving the car without owner's permission. As a result of the accident, Robert Walthall was injured and sued to recover for his injuries. Allstate had denied coverage under both the father's and aunt's policies on the ground that Joseph Marencik, III, was driving a non-owned vehicle at the time of the accident without the owner's permission. The court ordered that Allstate Insurance Company had a duty to defend and indemnify Joseph Marencik, III, in the action filed against him by Robert Walthall, under his aunt's policy because he was a resident relative of his aunt, he obtained his father's permission to use the car, and there was no basis for him to doubt that his father could grant permission.

DECLARATORY JUDGMENT

This matter is before the court on Allstate Insurance Company's motion for summary judgment. It has been agreed to by the parties that there are no disputed facts on the record and that this court may render a judgment on this declaratory judgment action for a determination of Allstate's duty to defend and indemnify Joseph Marencik, III, in an action filed against him by Jeffrey Walthall.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On or about July 1, 1999, Joseph Marencik, Jr., rented a 1999 Pontiac Sunfire from Penrac, Inc., d/b/a Enterprise Rent-a-Car. The rental agreement expressly prohibited anyone other than Joseph Marencik, Jr., from driving the car without Penrac's permission.

On or about July 1, 1999, Joseph Marencik, III, who resided with his aunt, Mary Jane Cassium, drove the vehicle rented by his father and was involved in a single car motor vehicle accident causing injury to his passenger, Jeffrey Walthall. At that time, Joseph Marencik, III, had his father's express permission to drive the vehicle. He was unaware that the rental agreement prohibited his father to lend him the vehicle, being unaware of any provisions of the rental agreement.

Allstate had issued separate automobile policies to Joseph Marencik, Jr., and to Mary Jane Cassium. Each of the policies included the provision: "[T]he use of a non-owned auto must be with the owner's permission." The policies defined an insured auto as, inter alia, "(a) non-owned four wheel private passenger auto or utility auto used by you or a resident relative with the owner's permission."

DISCUSSION

Allstate has denied coverage under both the Joseph Marencik, Jr., and aunt's policies on the ground that Joseph Marencik, III, was driving a non-owned vehicle at the time of the accident without the owner's, i.e., Penrac's, permission. It argues that he is not covered by his father's policy because at the time of the accident, he was not residing at his father's home, and that he was driving the vehicle without permission from the owner, Penrac. Similarly, Allstate argues that he is not covered by his aunt's policy because even though he may have been residing with his aunt, he did not have Penrac's permission to operate the vehicle.

In Carlsson v. Pennsylvania General Insurance Co., 214 Pa. Super. 479, 257 A.2d 861 (1969), the Superior Court took the opportunity to explain the meaning of the term "owner" in the context of the non-owned provision of automobile insurance policies. The court found:

the insurance company in referring to the consent of the 'owner' in nonowned automobile coverage included therein the consent of the possessor of the automobile, so long as the borrower reasonably believes that the possessor is the owner or has the permission of the owner to lend the automobile to third persons.

Id. at 488, 257 A.2d at 866.

In the case at bar, it is undisputed that Joseph Marencik, III, is a resident relative of his aunt, Mary Jane Cassium. Furthermore, we find that Joseph Marencik, III, obtained his father's permission to use the car, and there was no basis for him to doubt that his father could grant permission. Therefore, in accordance with the principles set forth by the court in Carlsson, Joseph Marencik, III, falls within the coverage provided by his aunt's policy.

ORDER

AND NOW, this 28th day of January, 2004, we find that Allstate Insurance Company has a duty to defend and indemnify Joseph Marencik, III, in the action filed against him by interested party, Robert Jeffrey Walthall.
