LAURA L. CASTANHAS, Plaintiff v.
MARIO F. CASTANHAS, Defendant

Property Settlement Agreement.

Wife sought to strike a property settlement agreement she entered into with Husband and a deed she executed conveying the marital home to him. She argued that Husband had misrepresented his worth to her on numerous occasions following their separation and had fraudulently induced her into executing said documents. Husband counterclaimed, asking this Court to require Wife to sign an Affidavit of Consent and Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree, as she had agreed to do in the parties' property settlement agreement. Husband also sought payment for his counsel's fees. The Court denied Wife's motion, finding that she failed to present sufficient evidence to establish fraud on the part of Husband. The Court also denied Husband's counterclaim, finding that the purpose behind section 3301(c) of the Divorce Code would not be served by requiring Wife to sign such documents.

In the Court of Common Pleas of Northampton County, Pennsylvania, Civil Division—Law, No. C0048CV2004002889.

Order of Court denying Plaintiff's Motion to Strike/Preclude/Invalidate Filing of Affidavit of Consent, Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree under §3301(c) of the Divorce Code, Property Settlement Agreement and Deed, and denying Husband's counterclaim.

RICHARD H. YETTER, III, ESQUIRE, for Wife.

MELISSA P. RUDAS, ESQUIRE, for Husband.

Order of Court entered December 2, 2004 by GIORDANO, J.

OPINION

The instant action is before the Court on the Motion of Laura Warshauer (formerly Laura L. Castanhas) to Strike/Preclude/Invalidate Filing of Affidavit of Consent, Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree under §3301(c) of the Divorce Code, Property Settlement Agreement, and Deed. Also before the Court is Mario Castanhas' Counterclaim.

I. Facts

Mario F. Castanhas (hereinafter referred to as "Husband") and Laura Warshauer (hereinafter referred to as "Wife") were married in May of 1998 and separated in November of 2003, at which time Wife moved to the State of Washington. Wife obtained the services of Jacqueline M. Taschner, Esq. and filed for divorce in April of 2004. Thereafter, the parties began discussing equitable distribution and Attorney Taschner, acting at the direction of Wife, drafted a property settlement agreement. Husband then obtained the services of his current counsel, Melissa P. Rudas, Esq., and asked her to review the property settlement agreement.

In May of 2004, Wife decided to terminate the services of Attorney Taschner. After doing so, Wife negotiated the terms of the parties' property settlement agreement with Attorney Rudas. Attorney Rudas then revised the parties' property settlement agreement and it was signed by the parties. In accordance with the agreement, Wife withdrew a claim for spousal support she had filed and the parties executed a deed conveying the marital home to Husband in exchange for the payment of $7,500 to Wife. Wife has since obtained the services of Richard H. Yetter, III, Esq. and through said counsel, Wife filed the instant motion.

In her motion, Wife asks that we strike the property settlement agreement and the deed to the marital home. She also asks that we strike an Affidavit of Consent and a Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree which she claims to have signed. Husband filed a responsive pleading which includes a counterclaim seeking to enforce the parties' property settlement agreement. Husband contends that Wife has not signed an Affidavit of Consent or a Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree, as she was obligated to do under the parties' agreement. He asks that we require Wife to sign these documents. He also asks that we require Wife to pay his counsel's fees for services rendered with respect to this action.

II. Discussion

A. Wife's Motion

In support of her motion, Wife contends that Husband misrepresented his worth to her on numerous occasions following their separation and that he fraudulently induced her into executing the documents in question. In support of this contention, Wife alleges, inter alia, that Husband agreed to support her in her move to the State of Washington and acknowledged this promise by sending her a check in the amount of $6,000, only to close the account against which the check was drawn before Wife was able to cash it. She also alleges that Husband is a successful realtor, pointing to his tax returns for 2000, 2001 and 2002 as evidence of his worth. She further alleges that Husband attempted to file the aforementioned deed before paying Wife the $7,500, only refraining from doing so at the direction of his counsel.

Wife relies on the Superior Court's decision in Hess v. Hess, 397 Pa. Super. 395, 580 A.2d 357 (1990) as authority for this Court's ability to enter the relief she requests. In Hess, a husband and wife executed a property settlement agreement. Id. at 398, 580 A.2d at 358. At the time they did so, the husband was negotiating to sell certain properties, without his wife's knowledge, for 200% more than the value he disclosed in the agreement, despite the fact that a clause in the agreement provided that the parties would make a full and accurate disclosure of their assets. Id. at 398, 580

A.2d at 358-59. The Superior Court found that the husband committed fraud by not fully disclosing the value of the properties. Id. at 400, 580 A.2d at 359. The Court upheld the jury's verdict awarding both compensatory and punitive damages to the wife.

Wife contends that, as in Hess, Husband committed fraud. She argues that, for this reason, Hess provides support for this Court's ability to enter the relief she seeks despite the fact that the relief she requests is different from the relief awarded in Hess. We do not necessarily disagree with Wife in this respect, though we decline to enter the relief she requests since we find that the evidence presented by Wife was insufficient to establish fraud on the part of Husband. The property settlement agreement was initially drafted by Wife's counsel and even after she voluntarily chose to proceed without said counsel, Wife continued to negotiate the terms of the agreement, as evidenced by several correspondences sent from Wife to Attorney Rudas. Under these circumstances, we cannot conclude that Wife did not freely enter into the agreement with Husband.

We also find Wife's contention that she did not know Husband's worth unavailing. The parties had been married for over five years before separating. If Husband is a successful realtor as Wife contends, this fact was surely known to her at the time she entered into the property settlement agreement, especially since she was a realtor as well. Additionally, any suggestion by Wife that she did not know Husband's worth because the parties were separated at the time they signed the agreement provides little support for her position since the parties had only been separated for a short period of time when the alleged misrepresentations were made by Husband.

B. Husband's Counterclaim

Husband contends that, contrary to certain averments in her motion, Wife has not signed an Affidavit of Consent or Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree. He contends that Wife agreed to do so in the parties' property settlement agreement and asks that we require her to do so. He also seeks payment for his counsel's fees in bringing this action.

In paragraph 12 of the parties' property settlement agreement, they agreed as follows:

[E]ach party does desire to be divorced from the bonds of matrimony, and therefore, each party voluntarily consents to the prosecution of a No-Fault Divorce action against the other under Section 3301 (c) of the Divorce Code Both parties agree to execute whatever documents are necessary and make any appearances in court that are required under the applicable local rules of procedure.

Husband contends that since Wife has not executed the above-mentioned documents, she is in violation of this provision. He seeks payment of his counsel's fees in bringing this action to require Wife to execute said documents pursuant to paragraph 20 of the parties' agreement, which provides if either party defaults in the performance of the agreement, the defaulting party must pay any expenses incurred by the other party in bringing an enforcement action.

Having reviewed the court file for this action, we were unable to find an Affidavit of Consent or a Waiver of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree executed by Wife. Therefore, if she did sign any such documents, they were not filed with this Court. However, we nonetheless decline to grant the relief requested by Husband. The purpose of 23 Pa. C.S.A. §3301(c) is to permit a married couple to obtain a divorce when both parties mutually consent to the divorce. Requiring Wife to execute the documents in question would be contrary to this purpose. Thus, we deny Husband's request that Wife be required to execute these documents. We also deny Husband's request for his counsel's fees.

WHEREFORE, we enter the following order:

ORDER

AND NOW this 2nd day of December, 2004, Wife's Motion to Strike/Preclude/Invalidate Filing of Affidavit of Consent, Waiver of Notice of Intention to Request Entry of Divorce Decree under §3301(c) of the Divorce Code, Property Settlement Agreement, and Deed is denied. Husband's Counterclaim is denied.
