

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF NORTHAMPTON COUNTY
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
CIVIL DIVISION

IN RE: MEMORIAL SERVICE OF PEDRO BOONE and
NORMAN A. PEIL, JR.

BEFORE THE HONORABLE EMIL GIORDANO,
Judge, Northampton County, Third Judicial District, Easton, Pennsylvania January 7, 2011.

APPEARANCES:

Jacqueline Taschner, Esquire
On behalf of Pedro Boone

Norman Seidel, Esquire
On behalf of Norman A. Peil, Jr.

1 JUDGE MCFADDEN: Good morning,
2 ladies and gentlemen. It is with deep sadness
3 that this Court convenes today to reflect upon 4 the lives and the work of our esteemed members
5 who have passed away within the last year. As a 6 Court, we are honored to have the families and 7 friends of our deceased members with us for this 8 Memorial Service.

9 At this time I will turn over the 10 service to Judge Giordano.

11 JUDGE GIORDANO: Good morning,
12 everyone. Good morning on behalf of the Bench
13 of Northampton County. I'd like to welcome you 14 all to today's Memorial Service and I'd like to 15 extend a special welcome to the family and 16 friends of the deceased. When we think of a 17 Memorial Service we think of grief, we think of 18 sorrow, we think of loss. Today we gather for 19 the purpose of celebrating the careers of 2 men
20 of the Northampton County Bar who passed away 21 this year. I believe it is appropriate that we 22 gather here in Courtroom Number 1, a room so 23 rich in tradition, as I suspect both of our 24 colleagues who are being honored here today once 25 stood before this Bench and took their Oath of

1 Admission to practice before the Court of Common
2 Pleas of Northampton County.

3 while these men came from very 4 different locations within this County and 5 practiced in very different areas of the law, 6 they both had in common a commitment to 7 community and a sense that the practice of law
8 was an honor and a profession not simply a means 9 to earn a living.

10 At this juncture the Court
11 recognizes Magisterial District Judge, 12 Jacqueline Taschner, President of the 13 Northampton County Bar Association.

14 MS. TASCHNER: Thank you. As 15 President of the Bar Association, this is a 16 bittersweet task for me. During the past year 17 we have had to say goodbye to 2 members of our 18 Bar Association, Pedro Boone and Norman Peil.

19 Now, as lawyers we work long hours
20 often making personal sacrifices to promote the 21 causes of our clients. Because of the unique 22 challenges of our profession we develop strong 23 bonds with our colleagues. And in a way, we 24 become our own family. The Northampton County 25 Bar is just that, an extended family whose

1 members are adversaries within these walls yet 2 can walk through those doors and share a cup of 3 coffee, a summer outing, a meal, a vacation. We 4 congratulate victories, share the joys of 5 marriage and birth and other successes. And we 6 often offer our support when a colleague suffers
7 a personal or professional loss. This 8 collegiate and sense of family is what brings us 9 here today. We honor the memories of our 10 associations with Norman Peil and Pedro Boone.
11 We thank them for their dedication and their 12 service to their families, our family, the 13 Northampton County Bar, the profession and the 14 community that they loved. It is bittersweet
15 because Pedro and Norman are no longer with us 16 to share their wisdom, their values, their 17 passion for the law. We mourn them and we 18 continue to mourn them. But today, as Judge
19 Giordano stated, we are here to celebrate them, 20 their lives, their personal and professional 21 accomplishments. So as we pay tribute to our 22 colleagues we also say goodbye and we say thank 23 you.

24 I'm here today, as well, to talk
25 about Pedro Boone. Pedro Boone was an only

1 child born to Lula and Lemuel Boone in the small
2 farming community of Ahoskie, North Carolina.
3 Pedro's humble roots marked his life; his story
4 is best told in the words of his cousin, Beverly 5 Hill Murray, who spoke fondly of him at his 6 memorial service.

7 Pedro lost his father at a very 8 early age, and his mother remarried and moved up 9 into this area, up north. Pedro was sent down
10 home to Ahoskie during the summers, spending 11 time on his uncle's family farm.

12 As a teenager, he met and fell
13 head-over-heels in love with Kathryn Grantham, 14 his Kitty. Despite protests from both families, 15 the teenagers married. As youngsters, they had 16 4 children; 3 daughters and a son. For Pedro, 17 his responsibility to his family was his primary 18 concern. He possessed innate entrepreneurial 19 skills. He managed to own his own service 20 station and a car dealership, Pioneer Motors, at 21 an early age. His beautiful bride not only 22 cared for the family, but she also had a 23 successful catering business.

24 And Pedro and Kitty were partners
25 in every sense of the word. Pedro would be a

1 bartender at Kitty's catering events and Kitty
2 would work with Pedro in his automotive
3 business.

4 Pedro and Kitty realized the 5 importance of education. And both had an 6 insatiable desire to continue the education 7 which had been interrupted by their youthful 8 romance and marriage. After being a
9 businessman, after raising a family, Pedro 10 obtained a BA from Moravian College, an MBA from 11 the University of Southern Illinois and his JD 12 from Temple University. Pedro, in fact, 13 received his law degree in the same month as his 14 daughter, Tricia. And that was an 15 accomplishment. And they were both very proud 16 of that.

17 Throughout his life, Pedro wore
18 many hats. He was a financial consultant for 19 and President of Venture Development; a real 20 estate broker and President of Venture
21 Development Properties; Syndicator and President
22 of Hydroelectric Corporation; a securities
23 broker and Corporate Secretary for the 24 International Investor's Services of Abington, 25 Pennsylvania. And he eventually established his

1 private practice as a wills and trust attorney 2 here in Northampton County. He was licensed to 3 practice law in both Pennsylvania and New 4 Jersey.

5 Pedro's heritage was that of 6 serving his community. His great grandfather,
7 Lemuel Washington Boone, was an educator,
8 clergyman and political activist, 1 of the most 9 influential African Americans in North Carolina
10 in the mid to late 19th Century. Pedro, too, 11 loved his community and served it in various 12 ways. He was Secretary of the Advisory Board 13 for the Salvation Army; Past President of the 14 Torch Clubs International, and a member of the 15 Pennsylvania Bar Association and the National 16 Association of Security Dealers.

17 Pedro succeeded in most everything he tried and 18 believed that necessity was the mother of 19 invention. Pedro, with the help of his 20 stepfather, built his family's home from the 21 ground up. He was an amateur photographer and 22 this hobby became an avocation. He documented 23 many, many family events. In fact, 2 short 24 weeks before his death, Pedro attended the Boone 25 Family Reunion in Greensboro, North Carolina.

1 It was an annual event that he helped organize
2 37 years ago.

3 Pedro loved life. He was eager to 4 embrace new ideas, new friends, new cultures.
5 He traveled to India, China and Egypt. He was 6 planning a trip to Greece at the time of his 7 death.

8 In summarizing the life that was 9 Pedro Boone, Ms. Murray said, Pedro came from 10 distinguished but humble beginnings. He 11 overcame the obstacles he faced and with talent
12 and determination, he seemed to have achieved 13 everything he set out to accomplish, and then 14 some. When he reached an age when many others 15 would have been counting down the years to 16 retirement, he was happily reinventing himself.

17 He enriched the lives of others
18 through his professional expertise and knowledge 19 of law and finance. He took great pride in the 20 accomplishments of his children and his 21 grandchildren. Pedro's final bequest, that his 22 body be entrusted to the Humanity Gifts Registry 23 of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for medical 24 education and research speaks volumes about his 25 selflessness and his character.

1 For 85 years, Pedro L. Boone was a 2 mover and shaker who would not be deterred by 3 situation or circumstance. He took his 4 obligations as a husband, father, attorney and 5 friend very seriously.

6 On a personal level, I was saddened
7 to learn of Pedro's death. I knew Pedro had 8 been practicing law part-time when he passed 9 away on July 30th and I was amazed that he was 10 still practicing law at age 85. And then I look 11 at Norman Seidel and I know he's still 12 practicing law in his 90s. And that is quite an 13 accomplishment. We'll miss seeing Pedro at our 14 activities. More so, I'm going to miss the 15 impish little grin, that twinkle in his eye when 16 he tried to be the curmudgeon.

17 The time for mourning is past,
18 today we celebrate his life, his dedication, his 19 spirit. He met life's challenges head on with 20 gusto and determination. I am honored to have 21 been his colleague, his friend, his family.

22 Now I'm going to ask Norm Seidel to 23 say a few words about Norman Peil.

24 MR. SEIDEL: May it please the 25 Court, we are assembled in this historic

1 courtroom to honor the memory of a colleague,
2 fellow advocate and good friend, Norman A.
3 Peil, Jr, who left us on June 7th of this year.

4 Solely because of my age, I am not 5 a stranger to this time honored tradition of the 6 Bar Association. As a matter of fact, 2 of 7 Norman's late colleagues, Gus Milides and 8 Robertson Taylor, both much younger than I, for 9 years would argue in my presence about which 1 10 of them would have the dubious honor of doing my 11 eulogy. Unfortunately, I had the sad privilege 12 of doing both of them.

13 For you, Elda Mathias Peil,
14 Norman's life mate, and Karen, Cindy, Chris and 15 Steve, and yes, even his brother and special 16 friend, Ray, this ceremony provides the Bar with 17 an opportunity to let you know the high esteem
18 in which Norman was held by his fellow lawyers.
19 Norman's reserved, low key demeanor did not lend 20 itself to his telling you on his own of his 21 sterling accomplishments in his chosen
22 profession.

23 When I came to the Bar, the County
24 was governed by 3 county commissioners. The law
25 required at least 1 be a member of the minority

1 party. Northampton County was then solidly
2 Democratic. Norman Peil, Sr, often referred to 3 as Nick, Norman's dad, was the perennial 4 Republican elected every 4 years to serve in 5 that office. The high regard in which he was 6 held by the community at large and particularly 7 by his political adversaries, augured well for 8 the place his son, Norman Jr, would eventually 9 take as a respected member of our Bar.

10 Norman was born on July 22, 1925,
11 was graduated from Easton High School Class of 12 '43 and received a Bachelor of Science in 13 Economics at the Wharton School of the 14 University of Pennsylvania in 1946. Completing 15 what was a 4 year course in just 3 years at such 16 a prestigious university gave early indication 17 of Norman's industry, intensity and zeal in 18 whatever he undertook. He then studied
19 accounting, leading to his Pennsylvania CPA 20 certification in 1948, and practiced that 21 profession for a highly regarded center city
22 Philadelphia accounting firm for 2 years, part 23 of it with Peat Marwick & Mitchell. Yet he 24 managed to attend law school and while working 25 received his L.L.B, later a Juris Doctor degree

1 from Temple Law School in 1951. He was admitted
2 to practice before the Pennsylvania Supreme 3 Court that year and later admitted to practice
4 in Northampton County, in this very courtroom.

5 On December 10th, 1962 he was 6 admitted to practice before the United States
7 Supreme Court. That admission was not a mere 8 formality, for Norman was just 1 of possibly 2
9 possibly or 3 members of our Bar who would ever 10 have the privilege of actually arguing a case
11 before the highest Court in the land.

12 I got to know Norman when he was 13 doing his then required clerkship for 1 of the 14 County's eminent attorneys, Bernard M. Goodman.

15 It was not long thereafter that our 16 Bar came to recognize his exceptional
17 qualifications as a tax lawyer. His experience
18 as a CPA and his work in the Office of Chief 19 Counsel for the Internal Revenue Service in 20 Newark, New Jersey, served him well in achieving 21 this measure of expertise.

22 Because of his exceptional skill, 23 he managed to attract as clients most of the 24 then giant companies in the valley, including 25 Alpha Portland Cement Company and Weller

1 Electric Company General Supply Company, just to 2 mention a few.

3 Over and above his professional
4 qualifications, there were 2 virtues that struck
5 you on your very first meeting with Norman Peil,
6 integrity and competence.

7 Norman needed no Professional Code
8 of Ethics to dictate his conduct as a
9 professional. His personal ethics were far more 10 stringent than those promulgated by any 11 professional society. Norman Peil, in fact,
12 exemplified the highest standard of professional 13 ethics, standards which his fellow lawyers could 14 seek to achieve. His colleagues might well have 15 referred to him as quote, Mr. Integrity, end 16 quote. In the parlance of the day he was called 17 quote, a straight arrow, end quote. Few of us
18 would measure up to the high standard Norman 19 Peil had set for his own professional conduct.

20 In addition, most of us, including 21 his secretary of 50 years, Mary wing, knew 22 Norman as the consummate workaholic. So much so 23 that it became a standing joke among his 24 colleagues that Norman had become a traffic 25 hazard, reading tax cases and tax reports and

1 commentaries while he was crossing Center Square
2 on his way to his office in the Alpha Building
3 from his home in Phillipsburg, New Jersey.
4 I personally witnessed some close calls he had 5 with traffic.

6 His studious attention to all
7 nuances of the Internal Revenue Code and their 8 interpretation made him a constant source of 9 research for all of us just general 10 practitioners not able on our own to fathom the 11 labyrinth of the Federal Tax Law Code.

12 He did find time, however, to be a 13 loving husband, father and grandfather. He 14 enjoyed his annual family jaunts to Stone
15 Harbor, New Jersey, where he did some part-time 16 fishing. And I'm sure a full-time reading of the 17 new amendments to and/or cases interpreting the 18 U.S. Tax Code. He found time to take part as a 19 member of the Kiwanis, the Pomfret Club, Friends
20 of the state Theatre, St. Peters Lutheran Church
21 on College Hill and St. John's Lutheran Church 22 on 4th Street. He served as a particularly 23 valued member of the Board of the Warren 24 Hospital in New Jersey, serving as President of 25 its Foundation as well as the Boards of the

1 Lafayette Ambassador Bank, Visiting Nurse
2 Association and the Phillipsburg Free Public
3 Library.

4 As busy as he was, he found time to 5 teach accounting at Farleigh Dickinson
6 University and Lafayette College, form a law 7 partnership with Michael Egan and later act as 8 counsel to the firm of Funt, Dayton and 9 Duckworth in Bethlehem.

10 Amidst all of his work, study and 11 professional responsibility, he was always 12 grateful for having had the opportunity to teach
13 Sunday School in East Orange, New Jersey for it 14 was there that he met his wife, Elda, who at the 15 time was still a young Upsala College student 16 whom he married on September 7th, 1957.

17 As his Pastor commented, Norman was 18 a man of great faith and immense commitment to 19 the church.

20 Norman and Elda traveled
21 extensively, visiting 50 states and 10 Canadian 22 provinces, including the Yukon Territory, 23 managing, nevertheless, to spend some winters in 24 Venice, Florida.

25 while an unrepentant New York

1 Yankees fan, he did find time to root for 2 Philadelphia Athletics or Phillies, that is,
3 when they weren't playing the Yankees.

4 His quiet, unassuming manner
5 managed to mask the zeal with which he furthered 6 the interests of his clients. I know from 7 personal experience the high regard in which he 8 was held by the Tax Court and the Federal 9 District Court. In 1957, he successfully 10 handled an estate tax matter on behalf of 1 of 11 my clients. The acumen he exhibited in 12 bypassing the Tax Court and convincing the 13 Middle District Federal Court of the merits of 14 his case made him immediately my quotes, go to, 15 end quote, guy whenever I had a client who had 16 an issue with the Internal Revenue Service.
17 Many of my colleagues soon followed suit.

18 There were 3 pillars to Norman's 19 make up; family, church and profession. He 20 managed each with 3 characteristics; modesty,
21 integrity and competence.

22 His presence will be missed not 23 only by his colleagues but by all who knew him.

24 JUDGE GIORDANO: Thank you, Ms.
25 Taschner.

1 Thank you, Mr. Seidel.

2 Ladies and gentlemen, as we heard
3 this morning, these men wore various hats during 4 their legal careers. They were community 5 leaders, public servants who contributed their 6 time and effort to the needs of the less 7 fortunate and working for the public good, not 8 out of a desire for position, or reward, or 9 recognition but rather a sense of public service
10 and professional obligation. It shouldn't come 11 as a surprise to any of us that as that is part 12 of our calling as lawyers, today was a pause to 13 remember our departed colleagues. We take time 14 to reflect on their noble contribution to our 15 community as lawyers of the Northampton County 16 Bar. Yes, we certainly grieve their loss but 17 let us celebrate their careers and honor their 18 memories and express our gratitude for the years
19 of service as members of our Bar Association.

20 The Bar Association is sponsoring a 21 reception immediately following this service in 22 the Jury Lounge. Please join us for this.

23 We will reconvene the call of the 24 list at 9:45.

25 Thank you.
